

ROE, JAMES
?-July 8, 1901

The funeral of James Roe took place on Tuesday, the funeral service being conducted by Rev. J.H. Gillespie, of the Wheatland M.E. church, who preached an appropriate sermon. Mr. Roe had been in very poor health two years past, and had suffered much. The third stroke of paralysis, which came about two weeks ago, proved too much for his weakened strength, and death came on Monday, the 8th, inst., at 12 o'clock. Mr. Roe had been a resident of this section for the past ten years, and a large number of sympathetic friends were present at the funeral to assist in the last sad rites.
