

SCOTT, EARL A.
1895-May 24, 1950

The community was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Earl Scott. He became suddenly ill when helping Bert Johnson with a wind mill and was rushed to a doctor but passed away before reaching Wheatland. A brother came from Sundance Saturday and an uncle from Basin and his mother from Missouri to attend the funeral which was held Tuesday afternoon at Wheatland. One son, Earl, Jr. and his widow survive him. It has been reported the family expect to move to Colorado to make their home.
